The layout includes two bedrooms and two bathrooms, providing privacy for family members and visiting guests. Living and dining areas connect with a broad balcony, creating additional space to relax outdoors. High ceilings and natural light contribute to the apartment's open, welcoming feel.

A Western kitchen and listed appliances support everyday living, while air conditioning, built-in furniture and existing furnishings offer a convenient starting point for the next owner. Buyers can inspect the apartment as a complete home, with the furniture and appliance inventory agreed as part of the sale.

Saturdays Residence combines private accommodation with communal spaces for exercise, relaxation and socialising. Shared swimming pools, a fitness centre and a library lounge provide options close to home, supported by reception, estate management and resident parking. Gated access and 24-hour security form part of the development's facilities.

The Rawai location places cafés, local shops and restaurants within convenient driving distance. Nai Harn and Yanui beaches offer nearby options for swimming and beach days, while Rawai's waterfront is known for seafood dining, island views and boat departures.
